Support Management and Board of Directors:

As CEO / MD you are fully responsible for everything in the company. In times of rapid changes all coworkers look to you for support, guidance and stability. Our experience is clear, even leaders with high experience in change needs external support when the business is at risk or failing.

The stakeholders, personell, Board of Directors and owners benefit from a shared platform to understanding and manage a winding-up of the business. Losing your job, your titel and money creates a lot of emotions and at the same time the job must be handled in a sustainable way.

Manage people in change

We provide facilitation of change, facilitating discussion allows the leadership team to focus on the content, the change at hand rather than the form for the discussion. We assist in gathering a team of experts with short notice to take control of the situation.

Providing facilitation on a regular basis ensures that change is managed with focus in a PDCA cycle (Plan, Do, Check, Act). Rather you manage the change process than allowing the world around you to manage you in a situation like this.

Take ownership and close-down for you:

Terminating a business is a tough decision and handle the stakeholders even tougher still. Being an expert in the field gets the job done with less emotions in the way of execution. Our focus is to terminate the business in a sustainable way. Working diligently and responsibly with dignity is important in these sensitive cases.

Handle corporate reconstructions:

In many cases it is still possible to save the company either by capital injections or change of focus. Companies tend to have a variety of intellectual properties not being put in use when the trend to focus on core business pauses other business initiatives. We take on preparing a second-opinion to investigate alternative scenarios to winding-up your business.
